Course Overview

Start your rewarding career in disability with All Health Training and become a job-ready Disability Support worker.

This qualification is designed for individuals working in community, home, or residential care settings. They operate within a multi-disciplinary team, under supervision and delegation. Their primary role is to deliver personalised support to individuals who may need assistance due to factors such as aging, disability, or other reasons.

Some tasks may include: personal care, mobility support, meal preparation, household tasks, emotional support, transportation, implementing care plans, behavioural support, advocacy and community engagement.

At All Health Training we're dedicated to inclusivity. We embrace access and equity principles, and we invite individuals with disabilities and from First Nations communities to apply. We believe in the strength of diversity and are here to support every learner in reaching their potential.

Entry Requirements

This course is an open entry program of study and to succeed, students should have basic reading, writing, and communication skills necessary for the job. Some additional entry requirements include proof of immunisations and a current police check for placement purposes. For further entry requirements, please visit our website or scan the QR code.

Govt. Subsidised Training

This training is delivered with Victorian and Commonwealth Government funding under the Skills First Program and may impact your access to further government subsidised training.
